At all the masses last Sunday the members of the congregation were cautioned about purchasing medals, books or any other religious articles from peedlers, who have no license or no exclusional permission to self. Every few months some busky individual appears in the city selling some sort of religious emblems that are of the very cheapest manufacture, and, what is changest randoms that are of the very cheapest randomstrare, and, what is worse, are of no shriftinal value to the purchasers. If people wish to spend their maney foolishly, of course it is their own business, but Rt. Rev. Bishop and his clergy do their duty when they advise against this "peddling" business.

Great attention is given to the Duke of Devoushire's ironical references to Mr. Balfour's practical refinquishment of the icadership to Joseph Chamberlain, and to his query as to how long conservatives would be content to allow the former colonial secretary to assume all the duties, privileges and responsibilities of the leadership.
